13th Annual Treasure Coast Waterway Cleanup, Lucky or not here we come!

Stuart, FL (June 10, 2020) – 13th Annual Treasure Coast Waterway Cleanup, lucky or not, here we come! Since 2008, this annual cleanup effort has removed 87.2 tons of trash from the waterways of the Treasure Coast. This year the event will be held on Saturday, July 25th. “If we’re lucky it will be safe to open our cleanup sites,” says April Price, Event Coordinator. “Regardless, we will have a week-long virtual cleanup that we will launch on Saturday, July 18th with the start of our annually proclaimed Treasure Coast Waterway Cleanup Week.”

With an effort to reduce the events carbon footprint, the Marine Industries Association of the Treasure Coast (aka MIATC), began the development of an online data recording component. This allows the volunteers to record trash results via their home computer or smart device. Our virtual cleanup initiative makes it possible for MIATC members and community partners to borrow its reusable supplies and conduct cleanups on their behalf all year around. MIATC reports the results to more than a dozen local & state agencies and non-profits annually. “Little did we know when we began this year’s planning that we would be dealing with Covid-19,” says Price. “Fortunately, our planning gives us the capacity to operate the cleanup effort remotely. We know that 45% of our volunteers are in the high-risk group for Covid-19. Many of our clubs and service organizations that come out each year are seniors. This program permits these groups to conduct their cleanup effort when they are ready to resume normal activities. We will make the decision on which sites we can open around the July 4th holiday. During the Treasure Coast Waterway Cleanup week, trash grabbers will be available at marina facilities throughout the Treasure Coast for boaters to borrow. Stay tuned to our website & Facebook page for those announcements,” says Price.

Volunteers are encouraged to pre-register whether they plan to show up at a site or choose the better social distancing option of the virtual cleanup. The traditional T-shirts will still be available to volunteers, along with a commemorative burgee for boats & watercraft. Cleanup participants are encouraged to photograph their efforts so they can be shared on the event website and Facebook page. If a volunteer signs up for a site that cannot be opened, they will then be contacted by the cleanup team to direct them to the closest opened site or set them up for a virtual cleanup. All participants will be asked to wear facemask to the site check-in. Corporate sponsorships are still available.
